Hope 🖐️ Help 🖐️ Heal

Message from our CEO

Dear Friends & Supporters,

It's a time to reflect on our 2026 fiscal year ending in June and celebrate our many achievements in the lives of the children we helped heal.

Fueled by the ingenuity, determination and support of our stakeholders, we build upon our strategic objectives and continue to build upon our 171 year history. Today we are well-positioned to provide high-quality mental health services to help our children heal so that they can live productive and meaningful lives.

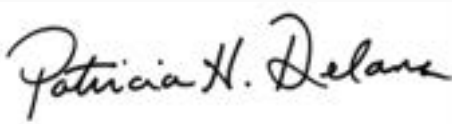

Thanks to our continuing focus on adhering to best-practice standards in everything we do, we recently were re-accredited for both our residential treatment program and our school. The Council on Accreditation granted the residential program a three-year accreditation, and the Virginia Association of Specialized Education Facilities granted a four-year accreditation.

This place – this community – is special, and what we do to help mentally ill children is special. “We feel blessed to have the opportunity to transform young lives by providing residential psychiatric treatment services to children who need help. We are on the front line in providing residential psychiatric treatment services

We look forward to the challenges of the future. For 171 years, we have adapted our programs to meet the ever-changing needs of children. We look forward to continuing our mission to provide high-quality evidence psychiatric, residential, educational and recovery treatment services to children who suffer from severe emotional trauma, mental illness and/or addiction.

Thank you for partnering with us as we continue to help children.

With gratitude,

Patricia Delano | CEO

A STORY OF HOPE

*Jackson-Feild didn't just help me change
my life - they gave me
the tools to build a future I never thought possible.*

-Carter

Carter's life was turned upside down when he was sexually molested. His perpetrator was arrested and imprisoned, but the psychological trauma shattered his sense of safety, altering his brain, nervous system and physical health. Carter suffered from severe PTSD. His mental illness was impacting his parents and siblings. His mother and father were desperate to get him help.

The hurt, pain and suffering became too much and Carter jumped off a three-story building in an attempt to end his life. A family friend had heard of Jackson-Feild and suggested to Carter's mom that they contact us. Soon after the suicide attempt, Carter arrived on campus with two broken legs suffered in the fall. He also arrived with a deep sense of distrust and trepidation. Carter was convinced that he was beyond all Hope, Help, and Healing.

The JFBHS staff, though, knew better. They knew that they could give him the help he needed to heal... but he needed to find the hope in order to try. Carter reports that "My counselors and therapists had to work pretty hard to convince me to let go of my demons and to trust them. I didn't make it easy on them, but I eventually did confront the demons in my mind and then let them go as best I could."

Having found the hope, Carter took full advantage of the services and opportunities offered to him at Jackson-Feild, and he began to thrive. In treatment, Carter re-developed the self-confidence and self-awareness stolen from him in the attack he suffered. "Everyone," says Carter, "has a choice in life. What you put in to helping yourself is what you will reap."

Upon completion of his treatment, Carter returned home and re-enrolled in his local public school where he completed an automotive technology program. "I really like working with my hands," says Carter, "and my high school's automotive technology program was amazing." This young man – abused and beaten – found the Hope, Help, and Healing at JFBHS that enabled him to get his dream job of working as a sales rep for a national automotive vendor.
